BACK FROM GERMANY

MUTUAL ADMIRATION—Above, Joetta Tenison, Mt. Miguel senior, admires the lederhosen sported by Ralph Traber, Monte Vista senior. The two recently returned from a summer spent in Germany as exchange students under the American Field Service program. Ralph was in Heilbronn in southern Germany, while Joetta was in Lauenburg in northern Germany. Below is a photo Joetta brought home of her greeting by her "Mother" for the summer, Frau Marunowski.

2 Exchange Students Return With Slight German Accents

Among American Field Service exchange students who returned home last week are a boy and girl of the area who showed up looking as if they had a stimulating summer — and sounding as if they had picked up traces of German accents.

Ralph Traber, a Monte Vista High senior this year, spent the summer at Heilbronn in the south of Germany. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Traber of 10158 Madrid Wy., Spring Valley.

Miss Joetta Tenison, Mt. Miguel High senior, spent the summer in northern Germany. at Lauenburg. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tenison, 1711 El Roy Dr., Lemon Grove.

They agreed this week that the experience was great. Ralph was "adopted" for the summer by a German "brother," Ferdinand von Kaiz, and his family, and spent two weeks in school with him before their vacation.

Having studied German at Monte Vista for a year, he did not have much trouble with the language, he said.

"I did all right," he reported modestly. Ralph brought back a lederhosen outfit—the leather shorts and suspenders familiar to many a tourist-poster viewer. He said, yes, the people in south Germany really do wear them—"mostly farm people, in the fields," he said.

Joetta was the companion for the summer of Alexa Marunowski, 16, and her family, and also spent a short time in school, about a week. "Since the Marunowskis operate a bakery, I worked in the bakery, too." she explained.

The two local students went to Germany on the ship, The Seven Seas, and flew back.

Washington's capitol grounds are maintained the year around by a crew of 73 men, including tree surgeons, gardeners and irrigationists.

Henry George School Fall Season Opens

Residents of Lemon Grove are invited to participate in a free round table discussion group in Economics to be held at the Golden Avenue School, 7885 Golden Ave. beginning Monday, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the San Diego Extension of the Henry George School of Social Science, the discussions will continue on Monday and Thursday evening for five weeks. No previous economics training is required.

Among topics to be consider are poverty, unemployment, automation, racial tension, and urban redevelopment. The sources and application of taxation come in for extensive analysis. Using Henry George's Progress and Poverty as a text, participants are encouraged to test for themselves the adequacy of various policies for dealing with social and economic problems.

Everett Seeley, a San Diego candy manufacturer, will be the discussion leader. Additional information about the School or the discussion groups may be obtained by calling School Headquarters at 296-1560.

Detective Must Stand Trial In Eavesdrop Case

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—A motion to dismiss a charge of conspiracy to eavesdrop against two private detectives and the wife of one of them was denied Tuesday by Superior Court Judge Verne O. Warner.

The case was continued to next Tuesday.

Accused of the conspiracy to "bug" a motel room are Edwin Meech, 30, of 3434 Grove St., Lemon Grove, and Vernon Ford Hyatt, 40, and his wife, Dixie, 35, of San Ysidro.

The detectives were named earlier, along with the Lemon Grove law firm of William F. Davies, Kenneth A. Barwick and Robert W. Knowlton, in a $300,000 suit for trespass and pass suit was filed by San Jose attorneys, Harry Feldman and Alfred Perez. The Lemon Grove lawyers, who employed the detectives, were not named in the grand jury indictment on which the detectives were arrested.

The criminal bugging suit and the $300,000 trespass suit grew out of an earlier civil action in which the Lemon Grove attorneys alleged that they that they owned a third interest in the Nelson-Sloan Co. Nelson-Sloan, represented by the San Jose lawyers, filed a counter suit. Feldman, staying at the Chula Vista Motel, 394 Broadway, told Chula Vista police he found a small microphone-transmitter pushed through a hole in his motel bedroom wall from an adjoining unit.

He said he found it while in conference in his room with Paul Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sloan of San Diego, co-owners of the litigant company.

Feldman said he jerked the microphone looose from the wires. The Hyatts were arrested in the adjoining room.

The detectives were indicted on the felonious conspiracy charge by the Grand jury. Their employers, the Lemon Grove attorneys, were not named in the indictment.

Eavesdropping is a misdemeanor, but conspiracy is a felony.

Wire Clipper Said To Be 'Pro'

Sheriff's officers reported Aug. 31 that a deputy had observed a man cutting the wire from four utility poles east of 10700 Jamacha Blvd., and ran a check on the license of the car parked nearby after receiving a report from the utility company.

John C. Norris, a security officer of the San Diego Gas & Electric Co., reported the theft of the wire.

The police report said that an officer had stopped and watched a man working with a long metal pole, cutting down the wires. A small battery driven motor and abrasive cutting tool were mounted on the pole. After cutting the wires the man dragged them through a fence onto vacant farm land.

The officer questioned the man, who said he had permission from the company to remove the wires, and the officer permitted him to proceed with his job.

Later, sheriff's deputies arrested Gerald Payne Meriwether of San Diego after a junk dealer identified him as the man who brought in six bundles of wire.

Meriwether, it was disclosed, had a reputation for stealing wire elsewhere in the state. Officers reported that he operated in a professional manner with his special equipment.

L.G. Man Charged In Surf Board Theft

When James Irwin and Luther Burney, two east county youths, went into a cafe in the 7300 block on Broadway on a hot mid-August day to relieve their hunger, they were also relieved of their surfboards, which they parked against the building.

The long arm of the law stretched to Sept. 2 before a suspect was charged with the theft. Arrested on two counts was Walter Emmett Maxted, 32, of 7035 Central Ave., Lemon Grove.

Irwin valued his board at $85; Burney valued his at $65.

GEYSER SUBSIDES—Pandemonium was beginning to subside when the above photos were taken by Clarence Scheidle, owner of Lemon Grove Paint & Body Co., after a careening auto sheared a fire hydrant on Broadway in Lemon Grove Tuesday evening. A geyser of water shot 50 feet into the air before firemen closed the valve at the hydrant and started the mopping up chores. Driver of the auto escaped serious injury.

Combined Seaport-Airport Operation Can Serve Public Better

The calling for bids for a new airport terminal facility at a cost of more than $2½ million brings to critical focus the handling of public facilities by city and county officials.

Spotlighted are facilities of the port and those of San Diego County's airports.

The port facilities, under the management of director John Bate has grown dramatically. The fact that development of San Diego's port was long overdue is neither a statement of favor nor disfavor of Mr. Bate's regime. He presumably did the best possible in line with what was required.

The handling of the airport business is another matter. Operating under County Public Works through an airport commission answerable to the county board of supervisors, airport operation in the county is not as efficient as it could be.

County airports such as Gillespie Field, appear to have been developed by guess and by golly. Recent federal involvement there has improved the functional qualities of the field and that was a condition to be desired. Yet, the county has been operating the field for many years and the taxpayer hasn't been getting his money's worth.

Other County fields are Borrego, Ramona, Palomar, Montgomery and four smaller ones. All of these fields are in regular use with the non-flying taxpayers footing most of the bill.

Few taxpayers complain about this but one of the surest ways to prevent squawks is to see that the administration of the facilities is efficient.

The port district handles craft, people, cargo and schedules. So do airports. It would seem reasonable that one capable commission and one set of administrators could handle the functions of both seaport and airport. Both the taxpaying and traveling public would be better served.

In Los Angeles, the Southern Aviation Council urged County and City officials to jointly form a commission for establishing an airport district. Perhaps the port district and an airport district could become one and the same thing in San Diego.

A recent study prepared by the Stanford Research Institute recommended that all city, county and private airports be integrated and coordinated under central management.

At least one supervisor, Henry Boney, with whom we discussed this matter, was not repulsed by the idea. We explored the possibility of one large district absorbing the port district and managing all airports in the county, including municipal airports. County government would be the responsible agency.

If this should come about, it would result in many types of economies. The Stanford report shows that centralized purchasing and single inventory of materials can account for sub-

FBI Paid Her To Prostitute, Spring Valley Mother Charges

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — A Spring Valley mother, 22, three months pregnant with her sixth child, who was paid by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for prostitution information, has been granted three years probation on vice charges and ordered to serve 90 days in jail.

She is Mrs. Diane Winifred Vest of 452 Sacramento Ave., who was convicted in a non-jury trial of pimping and pandering. Her husband, Kenneth T. Vest, 27, found guilty of pandering and statutory rape was granted

Hydrant Sheared, Auto Flipped; No One Hurt

Broadway at Citrus St. in Lemon Grove survived a flash flood from a fire hydrant Tuesday evening after the hydrant was snapped off by a careening auto.

Jack H. Bookbinder, 2841 Skyline Dr., Lemon Grove, escaped serious injury in the freak accident. Water flooded the area, covering the floor of the Art Leitch Realty office, 7303 Broadway.

A "loaner" car on the lot of Lemon Grove Paint & Body Co., 7315 Broadway, was totally wrecked when the 1964 Dodge Dart driven by Bookbinder landed on it after flipping.

According to witnesses, the Dodge went out of control and struck the hydrant at 5:30 p.m. The hydrant and the 4,100-gallons-per-minute, 50-foot high, geyser of water flipped the car.

Women Overcome

Clarence Scheidle, owner of Lemon Grove Paint & Body Co., was waiting upon a woman customer, who almost fainted from the shock of the events. In giving her first aid in his shop, he was detained from whipping out his trusty polaroid in time to get photos of the geyser at its height. Scheidle, who should know how to estimate damage, said his loaner was "totaled out" in the accident.

Lemon Grove's Assistant Fire Chief Fred Dixon reported that after the hydrant valve was turned off he drove Bookbinder home, and that he seemed to have suffered only minor injuries, even though his car was upside-down when he was taken from it.

SUPS NIX YARD JUNK

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — County Supervisors Tuesday approved an ordinance design to give the county a tool with which to force persons to clean up junk from their yards.

Assistant County Counsel Robert Berrey told the board that the county had had no law to prevent the accumulation of junk in residential areas. The law will apply to parcels of land of less than two acres.

Fifth District Supervisor Robert Cozens said he felt the county should act on specific complaints rather than have a building inspector actively search for offenders.

Berrey said that the law was not written in response to any specific situation.

The Board also authorized the Road Commissioner to issue permits for parades and to temporarily close streets The closing could not be for more than 24 hours, without special board action.

Grossmont J.C.'s Seam-Splitting Problem Explained

Planning for future junior college enrollment is like gazing into a crystal ball, directors of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce were told at their Tuesday luncheon meeting.

The meeting was conducted by Vice President C. A. (Chuck) Buckles in the absence of President Al Woods.

Harold G. Hughes, superintendent of the Grossmont Junior College District, told the directors that there is an "x" factor in planning for the future. This is because the decision of students to enroll in their "hometown" junior college instead of in one of the larger institutions of learning cannot be predicted. He said it not only depends upon the courses offered, but also upon many other factors upon which local planners have no control. One of these is the pressure for admittance into the larger, established colleges or universities.

Svalstad Heads Committee

Under the direction of Ron Svalstad, local attorney and chairman of the Grossmont College Campus Completion Committee, a color slide lecture voiced by San Diego TV personality, Lou Roen, was presented at the meeting. In addition to Hughes and Svalstad, Grossmont President Jack Hansen was present to answer questions from the members of the audience.

Hughes made the statement about planning in answering a question by Bob Vaught. Hughes explained why the enrollment for the coming year, as of Tuesday, was 450 higher

Assessor's Office Losses May Cost Taxpayers Millions

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—District Attorney Don Keller Tuesday told the Board of Supervisors that one case he is investigating in personal property tax statement filings in the county assessor's office involves "millions of dollars."

After hearing Keller, the board authorized Chairman Frank Gibson to make arrangements for asking Assessor John McQuilken to appear before it to be questioned. The board has subpoena power but did not indicate Tuesday whether it would use it.

McQuilken was present during the session but did not address the board although his attorney Ned Kimball was present. There was no indication whether the assessor would appear voluntarily at a board meeting or if he would answer questions if subpoenaed.

Keller told the board, "I can assure that in one case the tax loss to the county was exceedingly large."

McQuilken has been ordered by Superior Court Judge William P. Mahedy to either answer questions of the County Grand Jury if called before that body again or to plead the Fifth Amendment.

McQuilken's position is that he is an incompetant witness because he is an accused person. Keller says that McQuilken has not been accused of anything.

The grand jury did not hold its regular Wednesday meeting this week.

Christian Scientists To Explore 'Substance'

Christian Science churches will explore the subject of "Substance" this Sunday.

Passages to be considered from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things . . . . When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 264).

Bible passages will include verses from I Corinthians: "As it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God."

Witnesses See Life Forever

Attending the California Circuit No. 1 Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Chula Vista High School, Sunday, 10 area congregations heard District Supervisor Theodore Jaracz express great hope and encouragement for earth's inhabitants. He spoke on the subject: "What Does the Resurrection Mean for You and Yours?"

"Theme of the assembly was Increasing Praise to Jehovah, being better Christians and aiding others to do so," reported Carl Jones, presiding minister of the Lemon Grove Congregation.

Jaracz said: "Some hold that the dead will always be dead. Others hold that the dead are not really dead. But uniquely, the Bible teaches the resurrection of the dead.

"Fulfillment of Bible prophecy in our day shows momentous events are at hand," he continued. "Nations of earth are wrathful, men are ruining the earth and Armageddon's war will soon overtake present-day civilization. But God's kingdom is destined to rule the earth in righteousness and then the resurrection of the dead. All who obey will live on earth forever."

38 Episcopal Church Tots Visit Mission In Mexico

A trip to Tecate, Mexico, for 38 children, parents, teachers, and friends of St. Philip's Episcopal Church culminated the Vacation Church School's three-week program, it was reported this week by the Rev. J. Phillip Bartlett, vicar.

During the school term some 70 children were enrolled at sometime, following a well-rounded program of worship, study, crafts, and play. Said Reverend Bartlett:

"The trip to Tecate on Sept. 3, culminated their youthful efforts to understand the Church's emphasis on Mutual Responsibility and Interdependence in the Body of Christ."

The children took with them quantities of material gifts intended to help the school children of Mission El Encino to start the school year.

They were met at the Mission by about 30 children, their director and some teachers, and there was an exchange of hospitality and friendship. After introductions and a short program of singing songs to each other in their own language, each group sang "Jesus Loves Me" in the other language.

Prayers and grace were said and each of the American children was assigned a friend who took him around for the rest of the visit. Shared lunches were followed by more singing, and "we all found farewells difficult to make," Reverend Bartlett, said.

Men Gardeners

Garden equipment manufacturers say more men are working in yards and gardens today than women. Males represent 55 per cent of the gardeners, there being about 33 million, as compared with 27 million women green thumbs. The number of women workers has increased but not as rapidly as the men. Hence, equipment manufacturers are angling for the men customers in garden supply stores.

stantial savings. A single, top-quality administrator can perform the duties now shared by many. Better services and a realistic program of future airport development can result from single-government operation.

County government should be the agency since City government can not operate outside its own boundaries.

The integration of all airports should be studied now. The sooner such a program is instituted, the sooner proper planning for airport locations can be made. San Diego county will never be less densely populated. Nailing down future airport sites would relieve the hardship on homeowners who believe that they would never be near a noisy airport. Today there is no way to be sure.

Guest Editor: Joe Holmes

A bandleader friend of ours used to play many ballrooms with unruly crowds. His standard pre-opening lecture to his musicians was in two parts: Lay off the booze on the bandstand and if you can't play good, play loud.

It seemed to work. Until his death prematurely a year ago, he always had a playing date.

It works for Time and Newsweek magazines too. I don't know if a news writer is told to lay off the booze while at the typewriter but I suspect a writer is told, "if you are not sure of your facts, or if you want to drive a hatchet in some guy's back, write it loud, i.e.: make it sound like you know for sure he is a bum even if there is a question.

Most people read Newsweek and Time for news. Not me. I think they are the greatest murder mysteries published in the United States. Every week, I wait with bated breath to see who has been sliced up alive in the pages of the two mass news magazines.

As a mystery buff—having read all the James Bond books—I am particularly fascinated by their ability to eliminate a person by delicate means. Never the heavy bludgeon which would give away their entire plot. Always the artful knife or perhaps a subtle slash of an ice pick.

A recent issue of Newsweek is a perfect example of assassination with the printed word. They are obviously after Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and ready to sacrifice him and Police Chief William Parker on the altar of civil peace, Newsweek style, in the City of the Angels.

In their lead story on the riots, they set the stage for the knife into Yorty. Said Newsweek, "Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty blamed, in turn, the state police, the communists and poverty chief Sargent Shriver" for causing the riots. Yorty did nothing of the kind. His comments on each point was taken out of context and combined to give the impression he was decisive.

On Page 16, they come back to Yorty again. "The most remarkable combatant was LA Mayor Sam Yorty himself. His leadership had been curiously episodic throughout the disorders". Then they went on to point out he left town at the beginning of the riot and then spent the rest of the time back in town "bickering." They neglected to say nobody foresaw a massive insurrection on the first day of rioting when he left town to make a speech. Nor did they say he spent practically 24 hours a day at his office or at the police command center during the riot. Their attempt here was to make Yorty look like a coward.

And then they applied the coup de grace. Yorty was displeased at Gov. Brown pulling out some of the national guard when the riot looked calm. Asked about this at a press conference. Newsweek relates 'I don't know what the governor is doing,' the mayor whined."

The total picture they attempted to paint of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty was that of a whining, indecisive, cowardly public official. And Mister, if that is not murder by the written word, we don't know what is.

San Diego As World Brains Center

Docommun Incorporated, a steel firm with a branch in National City, announced a new concept in metallurgical testing and engineering services.

The firm will start a 24-hour analytical service between San Diego and its Metallurgical Service Laboratories in Santa Fe Springs.

The firm announced the new service at a press conference last week. A spokesman for the firm said that the testing service works like this: a San Diego client determines that he has a specific materials testing requirement. He contacts Docommun and a special SD to LA delivery truck will pick up the materials and deliver it to Santa Fe Springs. The next day an analysis report will be forwarded to the client in San Diego. No such service exists in San Diego at present, it was said.

The announcement came as college students were picking and choosing subjects for the coming year. We hope this announcement gave a sense of direction to some students. To us, the announcement said that San Diego is growing in importance in the field of metal fabrication. The overnight testing service was fashioned to meet a need. Soon there will be a need for testing laboratories here and we'll need science-engineers to man them. It is hoped that enough local college grads will be available for these tasks.

As one Ducommun man said in reply to a question: "Of course San Diego will house many such scientific organizations. She already has the reputation of being the 'brains center' of the world."

Dean Manion Keynoter At CREA Convention

Clarence Manion, former dean of the University of Notre Dame College of Law and well known television and radio commentator on the "Manion Forum," will deliver the keynote address at the 61st Annual Convention of the California Real Estate Association, it was announced today by Joe Henry of Santa Monica, general convention chairman.

The convention of the 50,000-member association will beat the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, Sept. 26-30, with the Los Angeles Realty Board as host.

Manion's topic will be "Freedom Is Real Estate."

Other outstanding speakers to appear will be James C. Downs, Jr., chairman of the board of the Real Estate Research Corporation, Chicago; Ed Mendenhall of High Point, North Carolina, immediate past president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards; Dr. W. Steuart McBirnie, minister of the United Community Church, Glendale, Calif., William J. Teague, vice-president of Pepperdine College, Los Angeles, and Cavett Robert of Phoenix, Ariz., leading speaker on salesmanship.

Retail Sales Gain 24% In 5 Years In S.D. Area

Retail sales in the San Diego metropolitan area (Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area, or, SMSA), which totaled $1,384 million in 1963, were 24 percent higher than in 1958; but retail sales in the city's central business district (CBD), or "downtown," showed a drop of 33 percent from 1958.

These are facts in a report "Major Retail Centers-San Diego SMSA," one of a series covering 1963 retail trade in 116 of the Nation's largest metropolitan areas, being issued by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Comerce. The basic data in the report comes from returns of the 1963 Census of Business with other data included for comparative purposes coming from the 1958 Census of Business.

Reflect National Trend

Figures in the San Diego report reflect a trend in the Nation's large city areas — increases in retail sales for the entire areas and for most of the "outlying" shopping sections, particularly in the suburbs; but a virtual standstill or even a drop in retail sales in the city's CBD.

The report shows that San Diego's "downtown" did $80 million in retail business in 1963—some 6 percent of the area's total sales in that year. In 1958 retail stores within the same area had sales of $120 million but this sum was 11 percent of the area's total retail sales in that year.

On the other hand retail sales in the remainder of the SMSA, including sections desginated by the Census Bureau as Major Retail Centers, or MRC's, went up 31 percent.

The report presents 1963 and 1958 data for the SMSA, for the city itself, for its CBD, and for 5 of its leading retail centers.

The report is for sale by the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402 or by any U. S. Department of Commerce Field Office. The price is 30 cents.

Boy Scouts Busy On Excavating Job

Four Boy Scouts of Troop 47 have been busy excavating from an ancient Indian burial ground at Mataguay Scout Camp. The boys are Chuck Damon, Robert Vryheid, Tim Gross and Ben Small III. The burial ground was discovered by the boys Aug.12, and since then they have made several trips to the area for excavating.

The articles taken from the burial ground are being turned over to the Matagua Museum. They have unearthed some fragments of an olla, a human bone and arrowheads. Tim Gross and Robert Vryheid were students in an archeology class this summer at Monte Vista High School, taught by Jerry Lipetzky of Granite Hills High and George Gray of Monte Vista.

than estimated, standing at 3,300. The boost in enrollment has created a seam-splitting situation on the new Grossmont campus in the Fletcher Hills area.

The slide program was presented to gain support for the October bond election. On Oct. 19 voters of the district will vote on a $3.5-million bond issue to complete the master plan of the college. This would increase its capacity from the original planned 2,500 enrollment to 4,000 students.

Chamber directors voted to sign a resolution endorsing the efforts of the completion committee and to "urge our friends to go to the polls on Oct. 19 and vote 'yes' to complete the college's master plan . . ." The motion for the resolution was made by C. Forrest Baxter, former chamber president, and was seconded by Vaught.

In other action, directors commended two teen-age guests for their work on Lemon Grove's parade float—Sherry Mastny, Mt. Miguel junior; and Kathy Traxler, sophomore at the high school.

Ford Daredevils Card 20 Events

The second annual Tournament of Thrills, featuring Don Chadwick and his Mustang Auto Daredevils, will be presented under the sponsorship of the Ford Dealers Association of San Diego County at 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, at Cajon Speedway at Gillespie Field in El Cajon.

The Tournament of Thrills comes to San Diego, repeating its spectaular performance last year in Balboa Stadium, straight from smash appearances in Sacramento, Hollywood, and San Francisco.

The two-hour show presents some 20 events, including the T-Bone Crash, Automotive Flight, the Slalom, Ramp-to-ramp Leap, Two-Wheel Drive and Backwards driving. This year all Mustangs will be driven by the one-half dozen members of the Mustang Auto Daredevils.

Leader of the team, Don Chadwick, is a veteran Hollywood stunt man, and will undertake some of the more hazardous events such as the T-Bone Crash, himself. In this event, a car flying through the air smashes at right angles into a parked car, flipping over while the driver remains at the wheel.

Tickets to the spectacular show may be obtained half price from any San Diego County Ford dealer.

Business Seminar To Aid Small Firms

San Diego State College School of Business Administration in cooperation with the U. S. Small Business Administration, San Diego, will offer a Management Seminar for owners and managers of small businesses at the San Diego State College campus each Thursday evening, beginning Sept. 30 at 7:00 p.m., continuing through Nov. 18.

The small business owner and manager faces most of the problems that a complete staff of executives deal with in a larger firm. Therefore he must have as a result a working knowledge of all areas of business administration. The seminar wil provide a condensed version of a series of business courses.

This seminar will provide an examination of some of the most important areas, with the emphasis on problems common to small business. It will explore such areas as general management, human relations, accounting, cost control, and taxation.

For information on this seminar contact Arthur Brodshatzer, C.P.A., D.B.A., Professor of Accounting, San Diego State College.

Hillock, Cross Marks Ist Martyr of California

By PETER ODENS

There are many beautiful things to see in the mission of San Diego de Alcala. You can spend much time inside the mission building or in the lovely garden, or you may climb up the stone steps leading to the campanile and see the original bell fashioned for Father Junipero Serra when he established the mission in 1769.

But visitors might easily overlook a little hillock outside the mission grounds where a simple cross was erected, and a guidepost on the Camino Real which proclaims that it was "erected by Mr. and Mrs. A. S. C. Forbes in memory of Fray Luis Jayme, the first martyr of California. Father Jayme was massacred by the Indians November 4, 1775. The bell was blessed 'Jayme' by Reverend J. S. Mesny."

After establishing his first mission in Alta California—although in very modest quarters—Faher Serra had moved on to continue his missionary work leaving Fathers Luis Jayme and Vicente Fuster behind at San Diego who realized, after a few years. that the spot originally selected was not a good one for growing crops. They had, therefore, built new and better mission buildings some five or six miles away in a place then called Nipaquay. Father Francisco Palou, Father Serra's biographer, reported that Fathers Jayme and Fuster were happy in this new place "seeing that they were gathering in abundance the spiritual fruits of the vineyard of the Lord."

Converts Few

The two fathers, it may perhaps be said, were not only over-zealous but over-optimistic as well, for they had not gained many real converts among the Indians of the area who were definitely hostile. Spanish soldiers had not been able to make friends among the Indians and had on many occasion treated them with disdain. Eventually, however, a number of Indians decided to move to the mission, but food was scarce and this did not make things any better.

In October of 1775, two neophytes ran away from the mission and stirred up a general rebellion among their people. The medicine men of their tribe encouraged them in this and eventually an attack on both the mission and the San Diego presidio were agreed upon. The Indians well knew that these places were vulnerable to attack because they were not, or poorly, guarded.

It was one o'clock in the morning of November 4 when about 800 Indians assembled outside the mission while another large band marched on the presidio. They were armed with bows and arrows and war clubs and some of them were carrying firebrands. Stealthily they approached, broke into the vestry from which they stole various garments and then, with blood-curdling yells, went to the attack.

Fire Set By Indians

According to some reports there were some sentinels who were quickly overrun, while others say there were none. But if any soldiers were on guard, they were fast asleep when the Indians attacked setting fire to the buildings and smashing everything in their reach.

The eleven men in the mission at that time did not do too well. A blacksmith by the name of Felipe Jose Romero was the first to die while a carpenter named Ursolino was severly wounded by arrows. He died five days later after making a will leaving all his earthly fortunes to the Indians of the mission.

Father Jayme, awakened from his sleep, ran out into the yard to see what was going on. He could hardly believe his eyes but was hoping against hope that he could pacify the Indians. He ran to meet them holding out his beloved crucifix.

"Amor, a Dios, hijos," he cried, "Love be to God, my children." But they merely grabbed him, dragged him to the nearby river bed, tore off his robe and killed him with their arrows and war clubs.

Meanwhile, the battle was raging between the Indians and the soldiers. Father Fuster and several soldiers had retreated into one of the buildings which contained a large quantity of powder which was used to good advantage by the soldiers in warding off the attackers.

Sits on Powder Keg

The Indians had managed to set fire to the building, and while some of the soldiers were trying to extinguish the flames, the good father sat on the large powder box covering it well with the skirt of his habit thus preventing sparks from igniting it.

At dawn the fury of the attack had abated and the Indians retreated, taking their dead and wounded with them. The mission was all but destroyed and all books and manuscripts had been burned to ashes; the chalice used at holy mass and pieces of coin used in the ceremonies of marriage had been melted into a solid mass.

On January 5, five Indian chiefs implicated in the attack were imprisoned, two others were later on taken from the mission rancheria one of whom was flogged to death, while other prisoners were given 50 lashes. It was not until October that San Diego mission had been rebuilt and was occupied once again. Thirteen Indians were still imprisoned at that time and were not released until June of 1777.

In later years, the mission flourished, but in the era of secularization of the missions it was sold and fell in ruins. In the 1920's it was restored as you can see it today, but the spot where Father Jayme was killed it hard to find, and most motorists will pass by the cross erected in his honor without giving it a second look.

S.V. Mother Says FBI Paid Services

the same probation and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Sentencing followed an unsuccessful move by Attorney Thomas Whelan for a new trial. The Vests, now of San Diego, hired Whelan after firing their defense attorney John Atherton following their conviction.

Mrs. Vest, who now is on probation for three felonies, said she should be given probation because "I was only a tool in the hands of the FBI."

The probation department, which recommended that Mrs. Vest be denied probation, said it received a letter from the FBI verifying that Mrs. Vest had been paid for prostitution information.

The FBI letter, signed by E. C. Williams, special agent in charge, reads:

"Mrs. Vest was never employed by the FBI. She furnished information on a confidential basis concerning prostitution and other matters under investigation by this office. For the period May, 1964, to April, 1965, she was paid varying sums of money at intervals, based on the information furnished, totaling some $160. She was never requested to engage in prostitution or any illegal activity."

Mrs. Vest told the probation department that she was asked by FBI agent H. Edger Sthral to get information. She said she explained she could not without associating "with the element." According to Mrs. Vest, Sthral "gave me a list of customers, some money and told me to get all the info I could."

She said Sthral told her not to tell her husband or her probation officer (she was on probation for forgery) about the arrangements, as the probation officer "might think he was influencing or corrupting me."

Statutory rape charges were filed against men with whom Mrs. Schleve alleged she had intimate relations when she was 18 years old. She testified that the Vests and the Barnetts persuaded her to work with them as a prostitute.

Old Sot's most encouraging news is that refrigerators now have automatic ice makers capable of keeping on hand enough ice to cool 50 drinks. Now he wants bottles that will automatically pour.

Television Horses Have A Busy Summer

HOLLYWOOD — (Special) — Television screens are lighting up this Fall with a number of new sagas of the Old West.

An entire new crop of heroes will be fighting for honor, glory, gold, justice — and ratings. This is singularly striking when it is recalled that the 1964-65 season started off with none at all.

During summer, the unemployment lines—as far as horses are concerned—dropped to negligible numbers. In June, for example, almost 1,000 horses appeared in front of television cameras, with American Humane Association field representatives on hand to supervise the action. A record number of horses will face TV cameras before the year is over, however.

Winter temperatures at Sitka and Juneau, Alaska and St. Louis, Mo., are about the same.
